SCCT Voted-In to AMA Specialty and Service Society Caucus

This week the American Medical Association (AMA) voted to accept SCCT's application to join the AMA Specialty and Service Society (SSS) Caucus. This is the largest caucus in the American Medical Association House of Delegates (HOD). The SSS is comprised of over 130 national medical societies, military service groups and professional interest medical associations.

This is an important venue for SCCT to interact with other groups in the House of Medicine. SCCT now has the opportunity to more fully engage in discussions on policy matters relating to each of our organization's key missions – science, education and advocacy. We look forward to the opportunity to provide critical input in these areas in order to secure the advancement of our field.
